

NOTICE.

Notice is hereby given to all whom it may concern that on December the 16th, 1902, the Mayor and Board of Council of the city of Hopkinsville, adopted, passed and approved an ordinance which is in words and figures as follows, to wit:

ORDINANCE.

Whereas, it is deemed desirable that certain territory lying on the south side of Hopkinsville, Ky., between the Palmyra road and the Cox Mill road be annexed to and included in the corporate limits of the city of Hopkinsville.

It is therefore ordained by the Board of Council of the city of Hopkinsville.

1st. That upon its own motion certain territory lying south of the corporate limits of the city of Hopkinsville, between the Palmyra road and the Cox Mill road, consisting of about six (6) acres, and bounded and described as follows: Beginning in the center of the Cox Mill road opposite the corner post between the lands of M. F. Crenshaw and J. B. Trice; thence with said line S. 13 E. 21 poles and 14 links; thence S. 12 W. 13 poles and 12 links with said Trice's line, to the corner between said Crenshaw and T. D. Moore; thence S. 75 E. 65 poles to Virginia street where the corporate line now crosses said street; thence N. 50 W. 89 poles with the city line to the beginning, be annexed to, and included in the corporate limits of the city of Hopkinsville.

2nd. The Clerk of the Board of Council is hereby ordered and directed in publishing and advertising this ordinance to give notice that proceedings will be instituted in the name of and on behalf of the city of Hopkinsville in the Christian Circuit Court for the purpose of annexing the territory described in the next preceding section to and including same within the corporate limits of the city of Hopkinsville.

Adopted Dec. 16th, 1902.

CHAS. S. JACKSON, Clerk.

Approved Dec. 16th, 1902.

JOSEPH HENRY, Mayor.

NOTICE.

In pursuance of the foregoing ordinance, Notice, to all whom it may concern, is hereby given that within thirty (30) days after the adoption, publication and advertisement of said ordinance and this notice a petition will be filed in the Christian Circuit Court in the name and on behalf of the city of Hopkinsville. The object of which will be to annex the territory described in the above ordinance to, and include same within the corporate limits of the city of Hopkinsville, and in said petition there will be set out the passage, publication and advertisement of said ordinance, the object and purpose thereof, together with the metes and bounds of the territory which is proposed to be annexed to the city of Hopkinsville; and said petition will contain a prayer asking for a judgment of the court authorizing said Board of Council to annex said territory aforesaid.

This December 16th, 1902.

CHAS. S. JACKSON, Clerk of the Board of Council of the city of Hopkinsville, Ky.

Santa Clause May Pass By

The house which has no pretensions to beauty. Houses just "put up" by the contractor who has no technical skill in designing and planning are apt to be unattractive to outsiders and uncomfortable to the insiders.

The oratorical knowledge and practical experience enables me to draft plans and prepare designs for houses, stores, etc., which will be ornaments to the locality in which they are erected.

Talk over the contemplated building when the family meet at Christmas. Then engage me to make your plans and specifications.

SOMETHING NEW EVERYDAY.

Revealed to the Close Observer and the Careful Listener.

That we learn something new every day is a fact that we seldom think of when routine is the order of our lives; but let our regular daily programme be interrupted by an innovation, however slight, and we must be impressed by the number of strange things that come under our observation. It is not necessary that the regular course of our usual conduct should be broken into in order that new things may come under our eyes; there are new lessons every day ready for us in the things we may do and hear, the places we may go and the people we may see, even 365 times in the year. The lessons from new scenes and acts and people are only more numerous and more remarkable than those to be gained from the scenes and acts and people of the daily routine.

If we are at home sick in bed for a day, when we are accustomed to spend most of the time at business in town, there are even then things we learn of the neighbors, for instance, however well we may think we knew them before. If the change is a greater one, but no greater than an evening in the country, for instance, the new impressions gained are correspondingly important.

We take a little trip to a nearby country place and we keep silent when the conversation of the party that picnics at a laurel-bordered spring concerns itself with springs. We are unwilling to admit that although we are not surprised at the existence of this particular spring and the charm of it, we did not know before that laurels were a rarity in our woods, or that it had ever been plentiful, and we discovered from what was said around us how numerous springs are in the vicinity of our city.

On our way home in the train we are again surprised to see along the way big factories we had never heard of, and to notice that their business was concerned with articles we did not know were made here at all.

We hear messenger boys talking in the elevators of office buildings and for the first time we learn through them that among the boys of the various messenger services in town there is a rivalry as to speed. "Bill Smith," we hear, "is the fastest boy on No. 2,000." Whatever else they might contest, we had always thought before, it could not be a record for speed.

And so it goes, says the Atlanta Constitution. Big things and little we learn every day. We neglect many opportunities through which we might learn every day more than we do, but consciously or unconsciously there is much we do learn every day. Sometimes we seek it; sometimes it is thrust upon us. In either case open eyes and ears are good things.

A TRAGEDY AVERTED.

The Man with an Empty Stomach Is a Dangerous Being.

The mood of the man is bitter. Gloom is upon his brow. He scowls fiercely.

Alone he mutters, and his mutterings are as maledictions.

The baby toddles against his foot and he immediately drives it away.

Tragedy is in the atmosphere. In such moods have men done murder.

Is the woman alarmed? No! to any noticeable degree. She glances at the man, notes his corrugated brow, and whispers: "Poor John! It is late."

Then she bustles about her work, and soon she speaks: "Dinner is ready, John."

Magic words!

In two minutes the man feels better; in three minutes he has recovered; in five he is calm; in seven, peaceful; ten, happy; fourteen, filled with ineffable bliss.

Now the man smiles constantly; he tells funny stories; good-nature oozes from him, and when the woman tenderly asks if he can afford two seats for the theater, he says: "Of course," and beams upon her.

And this is one man, not two, and thus is the evil spirit exorcised.

Measured By Photography.

Perhaps the latest application of photography is in tailoring. This appears to be a Parisian invention. The person to be measured is photographed in several positions while standing behind a network, which is photographed on the same plate, and serves as a standard of reference. By means of a kind of harness indicating the location of the armpits and other concealed points of the figure, the necessary accuracy is obtained.

Tears and Fears

Go together with many women who are approaching the first experience of maternity. The husband finds it hard perhaps to understand the changing moods of his wife. Indeed she cannot understand herself. She only knows that she is nervous, restless and anxious. A great change has come over her which she cannot understand or explain.

Women do not always reflect that at this crisis they are living for two instead of one; that they need health for two and strength for two. The need for increased health and strength by the prospective mother is perfectly met and satisfied by Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It tranquilizes the nerves, promotes the appetite and gives refreshing sleep. It makes the baby's advent practically painless, and gives the mother strength to give her child.

"I have before written you of the great benefit both myself and family have received from your most excellent medicine," says Mrs. P. S. Peterson, of Welcome, Wis. "I have since tested its wonderful powers in the case of the coming of my fifth child. Took two bottles of 'Favorite Prescription' and two of 'Golden Medical Discovery' the first two months and three of 'Favorite Prescription' the last two months. It saved me so much terrible suffering that I consider it a heavenly blessing."

Doctor Pierce's Favorite Prescription makes weak women strong and sick women well. Accept no substitute for the medicine which works wonders for weak women.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cleanse the bowels and stimulate the sluggish liver.
